This is an IoT app that records humidity and temperature of a room by a device.
The user can monitor the humidity and temperature changes in the room by app.
The events are humidity and temperature readings. They are received throughout the day. We have a peak load of 50 readings per second.
The user of this app will be the owner of the device.